

Session Notes

Past Sessions

Session 0 (5/2/26)

Audio

A few notes about the audio

- Justin's mic was peaking and was way louder than the other people. A salvage attempt was made, but the audio can be grating at times (especially near the beginning). Efforts will be made to rectify this before session 1.
- The audio occasionally cuts out for a moment. This will also be rectified before session 1.
- Justin repeatedly clears his throat through-out the recording. It is gross and he will be dealt with severely. This will be rectified in future recordings.
- The bulk of the important information can be found between 9 mins & 1 hour 17 mins in the recording.

Notes

General Notes

- DM will be recording each session and will try to ensure that the recording along with a summary is provided each week. It may take a few days after a session for the session notes to appear on the wiki.
- This will be a sandbox campaign that will develop into a story over time.
- Players will start at level 3.
- DM requested copies of everyone's character sheets and will need any updated information on characters whenever they level up.
- Listen when other players are having character moments. Even when you are not talking, you are still playing. Enjoy and be excited for each other's moments, even if they go on for a bit too long before it's "your turn" again.
- Adult themes and general unpleasantness may happen when the story/world demand it, but it will not be excessive. While there will be moments of darkness, the overall tone of the world is not meant to be upsetting.
- Players have free reign to cause as much chaos as they want, but there will be consequences.
- Player death will be a possibility, but it will not be done on purpose. In universe signposting will be provided. Out of game warnings may be given if no in universe signposting is feasible for whatever reason.
- Some mysteries/intrigue plots will take longer to solve, but the DM will do their best to signpost when a mystery can be quickly solved vs being a long, slow burn.

- In investigating the stolen shield, the party found out:
 - Nothing else was stolen.
 - Scratch marks were found on the wall and on Brecca's sword and one of the mounting fixtures was damaged, indicating a struggle to remove the shield.
 - There is an inscription on the shield in Brecca's mother tongue.
 - The door was unlocked the morning after the shield was stolen & the lock was damaged.
 - The lock had scratch marks and dents, indicating that someone struggled to get it unlocked.
 - Runa did not seem to be intoxicated, drugged, or otherwise impaired the night of the incident.
 - Runa saw someone through one of the stained-glass windows that night.
 - It seems that for the past few years Brecca's Sword has not been polished as well as you would expect for a holy relic.
 - Sylas, as a cat, managed to pick up the scents of: Rue, Harbard, Runa, an old person, and

- a faint whiff of someone else.
- The area where the shield was, and was stolen from, is desecrated.
- Harbard identified chrome as a possibility of what Brecca's sword is made from, but was not completely sure.
- Sylas was able to tell that Brecca's sword seemed to be made of ordinary material with no obvious tell that it was made of anything unusual, such as uncommon metals.
- A couple of weeks before the theft a teen or young adult showed up asking about the temple's artifacts.
- The man was a human of average height with dark hair and a dirty face and dirty clothes.
- The man did not seem to be a local to Brecca's Landing and his dirty clothes fit the stereotype of people from Ulfr.
- The party took the lock with them and decided to investigate rumors of Ulfr's Shadow and a thieves' guild supposedly located in Ulfr.

- The man turned into a sludge of viscera on the ground & Bernd takes a sample in a vial.
- The duo made their way to the Temple of Heroes to get aid from the clerics/priests.
- Bernd handed over the vial of viscera, but it was empty with no traces left behind.
- The duo was ushered into a side room where they were offered some tea while they talked.
- The duo was temporarily stricken with the inability to feel emotion as the calming tea that a cleric provided them was made too strong.
- After questioning the clerics on the temple's security, the duo was confronted with armed guards and a senior cleric.
- The senior cleric casted cone of truth on the duo and asked them questions about why they were at the temple and what interest they had in the temple's security.
- The duo went to buy potions.
- The duo sought out a blink dog and asked them for information on Brecca's Shield.
- A thief stole gold from Sylas and Bernd from a distance with a wave of their hand, accompanied by a purple mist.
- The duo chased the thief down, restrained him, and took him out of town to question him.
- The thief admitted that he just gained new power from someone which allowed him to steal items from a distance.
- The purple-eyed man appeared in the background, slitting his own throat.
- The purple-eyed man suddenly healed and the thief's throat was slit in his place.
- The man offered a deal to the duo again, to which they responded by knocking him out.
- With some guards, the duo took the purple-eyed man to Vargrson, hoping that he can help deal with the man.

The bar owner is obligated to assist the party in any reasonable way in obtaining the thief & the artifact, and to give the thief a chance to repent & make things right and to allow the thief to say any needed goodbyes before any punishment is doled out.
- Anyone who breaks the contract dies
- The bar owner's name is "Othin"

- When pressed for clarity, Blodwen says that the boy must be punished for his crimes. He could be protected for a time in Gwenborg, but the contract must be fulfilled.
- Rue hands Blodwen a silver coin as thanks for the meal.
- When handing over the coin, Rue and Blodwen's hands touch. Rue feels a rush of sanctified energy through her and feels the dark energy from the contract loosen, allowing her more leeway in the contract.

- Rue test fires the gun at the man who enchanted it, which he gets upset at and hits her for.
- Inside the bar area, Bernd saw someone who looked like the target entering the black market and lets the party know.

- In order to fulfill the favor, the stall owner hands Rue a rock that is imbued with message. At some point in the future she will be asked for a favor through the rock.

- Bernd grabs a greatclub from a nearby stall and attacks the turtle with it.
- The greatclub has the following effects:

Upon failure, the user enters a blind rage, targeting which ever creature they were attacking. (If the user is a barbarian they enter rage without using a rage counter.) While in a blind rage, the user is unable to do anything except attack their target. The user will exit their blind rage when: (1) the target is dead or incapacitated or (2) the target is out of view and the user cannot reasonably chase them down.
